

Short Bio for Alicia Z. Klepeis, Children's Author

Alicia Z. Klepeis is a children's author of both nonfiction and fiction. She began her career at the National Geographic Society in Washington, D.C. From jellybeans to vampires, Alicia loves to research fun and out-of-the-ordinary topics that make nonfiction exciting for readers. She is the author of numerous kids' books, including the following titles: Bizarre Things We've Called Medicine, Understanding Saudi Arabia Today, Vampires: The Truth Behind History's Creepiest Bloodsuckers, and The World's Strangest Foods.

Alicia's first picture book, Francisco's Kites, was released in May 2015. Called "a delight to page through" by The Midwest Book Review, this book was named to the Tejas Star Reading List. Alicia is also the author of three world adventure books such as From Pizza to Pisa. This fall her middle grade novel A Time for Change is being released as part of the History Files series by Rourke. Set in 1960, this story sheds light on the Civil Rights Movement.

Alicia has written over 100 articles in magazines such as National Geographic Kids, Kiki, and FACES. Alicia is currently working on several projects involving world cultures, American history, and fascinating animals of many kinds. She lives with her family in upstate New York.